(February 17, 2004- TROY)- A figure skating exhibition performed by athletes set to compete in the Empire State Games later this week will take place TONIGHT at 7 p.m. at the Knickerbacker Ice Arena in Lansingburgh.

Entitled "A Winter Frolic," the show is being sponsored by the City of Troy, and hosted by the Uncle Sam and Hudson Mohawk Skating Clubs. Admission to the show is just one can of food.

The show highlights a week events announced earlier this month by Mayor Harry Tutunjian that will give kids on winter break free activities to participate in. All this week kids in Troy can take advantage of free skating at the arena.

All members of the media are strongly encouraged to attend the exhibition as residents of Troy wish these athletes well. For information about the exhibition contact Jeff Buell at 270-4554.
